VOLUME XX INDEX

NO. 1, SPRING 1991	1–120
NO. 2, SUMMER 1991	121–244
NO. 3, FALL 1991	245–356
NO. 4, WINTER 1991	357–464

A

Accountability: health charities, 385–391; human service organizations, 430; and market forces, 390; nonprofit agencies, 438–439; nonprofit organizations, 385; organizational, 385; political/legal, 389; structural, 389

Action initiators: vs. activists, 156; micro-level hypotheses, 157; role, 171

Activists: vs. action initiators, 156; and activism, 152–156; macro-/micro-level hypotheses, 157. See also Direct political action

Activity theory, 227, 235

Adams, C., "Commercial Venturing and the Transformation of America's Voluntary Social Welfare Agencies," 25–38

Ahrens, J., Beneficience, Philanthropy and the Public Good, reviewed, 118–120

AIDS: African-American response, 324; and death/dying issues, 275; and drug use, 339–341; gay community response, 322–324; and gay men vs. intravenous drug users, 316–328; government response, 267–268; and health care crisis, 341–344; Hispanic response, 324; hospital-based programs, 281–282; individual volunteer response, 251, 268, 272; intravenous drug user response, 323–324; long-term care problems, 264, 274; media coverage, 264; medical nonresponse, 293; as minority problem, 305; nonprofit sector response (study), 314–328; organizational response/failure, 351-354; and other epidemics, 272; pandemic projections, 250; philanthropic funding (study), 250–265; politicization, 294–295, 304–306; and power issues, 320–322, 325–326; prevention education, 264; professional/foundation response, 325–325; and quality-of-life issues, 274–275; and racism/sexism/homophobia, 260–261, 264; second wave, 313, 355; and social/economic/medical problems, 262–263, 294–295; treatments, 263–264; and workplace, 336–339

AIDS Disaster: The Failure of Organizations in New York and the Nation, The, reviewed, 351–356

AIDS funding: collaborative efforts, 257–258; community foundation for, 254; contributors, 259; corporate philanthropic, 254–255; diversity, 263; and donors, 253–254; individual, 251; and issue fatigue, 265; key aspects, 251–254; organizational, 252–253; and policy/advocacy efforts, 261–262; and private foundations, 256–257; and public foundations, 255–256; and risk taking, 259–261; and trustees, 260

AIDS volunteerism: cultural influences, 274–275; motivation, 298–299; New York example, 278–280; personal dimension, 300–301; and resource-mobilization theory, 278, 280; and social/cultural forces, 272–273; study, 269–284; volunteer characteristics, 297–300; and worried well, 295–297. See also Gay voluntarism

AIDSWORK, 301

Alternative foundation movement, 115–116

Altruism: and associations, 125; health charities, 390; volunteer, 298–299

American Foundation for AIDS Research (AmFar), 255–256

Articles: "The Citizens Commission on AIDS: A Private-Sector Response to an Epidemic," 329–349; "Commercial Venturing and the Transformation of America's Voluntary Social Welfare Agencies," 25–38; "Contracted Services: Issues for the Nonprofit Agency Manager," 429–443; "Four Sectors or Five? Retaining the Member-Benefit Sector," 137–150; "Gay AIDS Voluntarism as Political Activity," 289–312; "Inequity and Power in the Nonprofit

Articles (continued)
Sector: A Comparative Analysis of AIDS-Related Services for Gay Men and Intravenous Drug Users in Chicago," 313–328; "Issues of Accountability in Health Charities: A Case Study of Accountability Problems Among Nonprofit Organizations," 371–393; "Managing Grants and Contracts: The Case of Four Nonprofit Social Service Organizations," 5–24; "A Methodology for Measuring the Financial Vulnerability of Charitable Nonprofit Organizations," 445–460; "Neighborhood Needs and Organizational Resources: New Lessons from Detroit," 173–189; "Not-for-Profit Organizations in the Soviet Union: Turning On Some Lights," 81–94; "On Sharing: A Preface to an Economic Theory of Voluntary Action," 359–370; "Organized Philanthropy's Response to AIDS," 249–266; "Participation in Policy Determination by Registered Nurses in Not-for-Profit and Proprietary Facilities," 39–55; "Permanent Disaster Volunteers: Where Do They Fit?" 395–414; "Political Culture, Nonprofit Organizations, and the Financing of Human Services," 95–111; "Relationships Among Market Work, Work Aspirations, and Volunteering: The Case of Retired Women," 225–236; 'The Roots of Voluntary Agencies: A Question of Choice," 57–69; "Self-Help Groups Providing Services: Conflict and Change," 191–205; "Skill Transferal Benefits from Volunteer Experiences," 71–79; "State, Market, Third Sector: Problems of Organizational Choice in the Delivery of Public Services," 123–136; "Trustee Motivation and Board Effectiveness," 207–224; "Varieties of Activism in Three Western Democracies," 151–172; "Voluntary Organizations in Developing Countries and Colonial Societies: The Social Service Department of the Palestine Jewish Community in the 1930s," 415–428; "The Volunteer Response to the AIDS Epidemic in New York City: Implications for Research on Voluntarism," 267–287

Australia, disaster management system (case study), 407–410

B

Beneficence, Philanthropy and the Public Good, reviewed, 118–120
Bernstein, S. R., "Contracted Services: Issues for the Nonprofit Agency Manager," 429–443
Billis, D., "The Roots of Voluntary Agencies: A Question of Choice," 57–69
Blades, S. D., "Issues of Accountability in Health Charities: A Case Study of Accountability Problems Among Nonprofit Organizations," 371–393
Bloland, H. G., review by, 113–118
Boards of directors. See Boards of trustees
Boards of trustees: and AIDS funding, 260; and AIDS services, 260, 282; college, effectiveness (study), 208–221; competencies, 209–210; cooptation, 384–385; effectiveness enhancement, 222; health charity, 383–385; incentives, 223; and institutional identification, 222
Book Reviews: The AIDS Disaster: The Failure of Organizations in New York and the Nation, 351–356; Beneficence, Philanthropy and the Public Good, 118–120; Charity Begins at Home: Generosity and Self-Interest Among the Philanthropic Elite, 113–118; "The Formal, Informal, and Voluntary Sectors in Development Theory and Practice," 237–243; "Making Clay from Bricks," 461–464
Britton, N. R., "Permanent Disaster Volunteers: Where Do They Fit?" 395–414
Bureaucracies: vs. associations, 60–61; defined, 60; governmental vs. business, 61; and volunteers, 281–284
Burlingame, D., "Making Clay from Bricks," 461–464
Bystander intervention action, 404

C

Career emergency officers, 399
Chait, R. P., "Trustee Motivation and Board Effectiveness," 207–224

Chambré, S. M., "The Volunteer Response to the AIDS Epidemic in New York City: Implications for Research on Voluntarism," 267–287
Chang, C. F., "A Methodology for Measuring the Financial Vulnerability of Charitable Nonprofit Organizations," 445–460
Change: and individual participation, 186; self-help group, 193–194; and voluntarism, 273–274
Charity Begins at Home: Generosity and Self-Interest Among the Philanthropic Elite, reviewed, 113–118
Cherkoway, B., "Neighborhood Needs and Organizational Resources: New Lessons from Detroit," 173–189
"Citizens Commission on AIDS: A Private-Sector Response to an Epidemic, The," 329–349
Citizens Commission on AIDS for New York City and Northern New Jersey: agenda, 335–336, 339; and AIDS in workplace, 336–339; AIDS prevention/education efforts, 344; assessment, 346–347; and drug/AIDS education, 339–341; formation, 330–335; funding, 331–332; membership, 332–334; as model, 347–349; sponsors, 330, 332; termination, 345–346
Clubs: defined, 368; excludability, 369; and goods, 368; resource mobilization aspect, 368–369
Collectiveness index, 141
Commercial venturing: and client base, 33; consequences, 31–32; dilemmas, 32–35; future prospects, 35–37; and loss of control, 34; organizational characteristics, 27–30; and voluntary welfare agencies (study), 27–37
"Commercial Venturing and the Transformation of America's Voluntary Social Welfare Agencies," 25–38
Community: and AIDS funding, 254; gay, and AIDS, 293, 322–324; integrative system, 360; and self-organizations, 133; and sharing, 360, 361
Continuity theory, 227–228
"Contracted Services: Issues for the Nonprofit Agency Manager," 429–443
Contracted services management: accountability, 438–439; administrative issues, 435–436; ethical issues, 436–437; and for-profit organizations, 440; as game, 432–434; and government funding organization, 432–440; managers' perspectives, 434; political issues, 437–441; prerequisites, 440–441; study, 431–441
Contracting: game aspect, 432–435; nonprofit agency (study), 430–441; and reconciliation strategy, 429–430; services management, 431–434; welfare services, 429–430
Culture, and philanthropy, 114. See also Political culture

D

Deinstitutionalization. See Mental health care: and deinstitutionalization
Design Industries Foundation for AIDS (DIFFA), 256, 259
Detroit (Mich.) neighborhood participation study, 174–186: activities/accomplishments, 180–182; involvement, 182–184; leaders, 175–177; organizational/community characteristics, 184; organizations, 177–178; problems, 178–180
Development theory, 239
Direct political action: and activist/initiator backgrounds, 171; and alternatives to socioeconomic model, 154–155; and country size, 171; cross-cultural study, 158–170; forms, 152; initiators, 156; multimobilization model, 156; and personal initiative, 152; postmaterialism model, 155–156; purposes, 170; and socioeconomic model, 154–156; and upside-down socioeconomic model, 155–156; in U.S., W. Germany, Netherlands, 153; in Western welfare state, 153. See also Activism
Disaster: behavior, 398; defined, 396; and disaster-relevant organizational network (DRON), 397, 406–407, 410–411; and human resources, 397–398; professionals, 395, 399, 406–412; and resource allocation, 397; and volunteer role, 399
Disaster-relevant organizational network (DRON), 397, 406–407, 410–411
Disaster volunteerism: Australia (case study), 407–410; costs, 403–404; orga-

Disaster volunteerism (continued)
nizational characteristics, 406-407. See also Permanent disaster volunteers

E

Economic theory: and exchange concept, 360-361; and one-way transfer, 360; and public good, 359-360; and voluntary action research, 360
Exchange sector, 366
Exchange theory, 361

F

Financial vulnerability: and administrative costs, 453; defined, 445; and equity balances, 451-452; importance, 446; measures, 450-451; nonprofit organizations (study), 453-459; and operating margins, 453; research, 448-450; and revenue concentration, 452-453; and third-party funding, 447-448
"Formal, Informal, and Voluntary Sectors in Development Theory and Practice, The," 237-243
For-profit organizations (FPOs): contracted services, 440; vs. nonprofits, 34-35
"Four Sectors or Five? Retaining the Member-Benefit Sector," 137-150
Four-sector delivery systems model, 128-129
Funders Concerned About AIDS (FCAA), 262
Funding: AIDS (study), 250-265; alternative, 115-116; and conservative federal policy, 25-26; control, 22; and donor incentives, 110; donations, 9-10; federal, 101-102; feminist, 116; nonprofit organizations (study), 7-22; private sector, 109; public, 10-11; stability patterns, 8; state/local, 104-107; structures, 8. See also AIDS funding; Grants; Philanthropy; Resource management; Resources

G

Galvin, K. M., "Organized Philanthropy's Response to AIDS," 249-266
"Gay AIDS Voluntarism as Political Activity," 289-312
Gay Men's Health Crisis (New York): AIDS awareness efforts, 295; community mobilization, 295-297; growth pattern, 280; history, 278-279; organization, 293-294; and resource mobilization theory, 278-280; volunteers' profile/role, 297-301
Gay voluntarism: as American phenomena, 306-307; as bearing witness, 302-303; and homophobia, 292; as personal/political transformation, 304-305; personal risks, 296; research problems, 290-293; as self/community link, 303-304, 306-307; survey, 297-300; theories, 289. See also AIDS volunteerism
Germany: political action cross-cultural study, 158-170; services delivery system, 123, 126-127, 129
Ghana, informal-formal sectors, 238-239
Goods: club, 368; collective, 364-366, 368; congestion, 366; and economic theory, 359-360; excludability/nonexcludability, 363, 368-369; nonrival, 363-364; public/private, 359-360, 363-365
Government: contracts, 14-17, 35-36; failure, 142; load-shedding, 26; and neocorporatism, 132; and new subsidiarity, 133; offloading, 132-133; Polaris missile program, 353; response to epidemics, 353. See also State
Government funding organizations (GFOs), 432-441
Grantmaking. See Funding
Grants: defined, 361; and exchange relationships, 360-361; as one-way transfer, 360; restricted, management, 11-22; and utility function, 361-362. See also Funding
Gronbjerg, K. A., "Managing Grants and Contracts: The Case of Four Nonprofit Social Service Organizations," 5-24
Group consciousness model, 154
Groups of actors, 313-314
Guilln, M. F., The AIDS Disaster: The Failure of Organizations in New York and the Nation, reviewed, 351-356

H

Health care: crisis, 341-344; financial vulnerability, 458; not-for-profit vs.

proprietary facilities (study), 41–54. See also Health charities; Hospitals; Mental health care
Health charities: accountability, 385–391; altruistic values, 390; asset evaluation, 377–379; boards of directors, 383–385; contribution to health care, 372; creative bookkeeping, 381; defined, 372; and equity across diseases, 379–381; funding issues, 373–374; fund-raising activities, 383; impact assessment, 382–383; marketing concerns, 381–382; and organizational aging, 386–387; and political lobbying, 386; research issues, 387–388; revenues, 371–372; study, 373–387; taxation, 388. See also Philanthropy
Heunks, F. J., "Varieties of Activism in Three Western Democracies," 151–172
Holland, T. P., "Trustee Motivation and Board Effectiveness," 207–224
Homophobia, 260–261, 264, 292
Hospitals: AIDS programs, 281–284; power structure, 282–283; volunteer directors, 282; volunteers' status, 282–284. See also Health care
Household/personal sector, 138–139, 147
Howard Brown Memorial Clinic (HBMC) (Chicago), 319, 322–323
Human services: delivery system, 11–14; federal support, 101–102; and political culture, 98; Texas (study), 98–110; third-party government, 11. See also Social service organizations

I

Idson, T. L., "Participation in Policy Determination by Registered Nurses in Not-for-Profit and Proprietary Facilities," 39–55
Independent sector. See Voluntary sector
"Inequity and Power in the Nonprofit Sector: A Comparative Analysis of AIDS-Related Services for Gay Men and Intravenous Drug Users in Chicago," 313–328
Integrative systems, 360
Interest groups, 313–314
Intravenous drug users (IVDUs): and AIDS/HIV prevention efforts, 339–341; defined, 313; intractability, 355; lack of political power, 320–322; and nonprofit sector response (study), 314–328; racial component, 321; self-consciousness, 321; and service provision, 316–320
"Issues of Accountability in Health Charities: A Case Study of Accountability Problems Among Nonprofit Organizations," 371–393

J

Janey, J. P., "Skill Transferal Benefits from Volunteer Experiences," 71–79
Jewish National Council (JNC): British recognition, 418–419; early days, 422–424; origins, 417–418; and self-government, 425–426; Social Service Department, 420–422; transformation to government ministry, 424–425
Job satisfaction, 40

K

Kalifon, S. Z., "Self-Help Groups Providing Services: Conflict and Change," 191–205
Kayal, P. M., "Gay AIDS Voluntarism as Political Activity," 289–312

L

Levine, C., "The Citizens Commission on AIDS: A Private-Sector Response to an Epidemic," 329–349
Life-cycle theory, 67
Loewenberg, F. M., "Voluntary Organizations in Developing Countries and Colonial Societies: The Social Service Department of the Palestine Jewish Community in the 1930s," 415–428
Lonnquist, L. E., "Skill Transferal Benefits from Volunteer Experiences," 71–79

M

"Making Clay from Bricks," 461–464
"Managing Grants and Contracts: The Case of Four Nonprofit Social Service Organizations," 5–24
Market: and accountability, 390; failure, 142; participation of women in, 225–226; reinstatement, 132; vs. state, 126–127. See also Private sector

Martin, M. W., review by, 118–120
Member-benefit subsector: contributions/expenditures, 144–145; importance, 141–142, 145; public benefits, 145–146; and religion, 143–144, 147; retaining, 139–140; tax laws, 147
Mental health care: and deinstitutionalization, 191–192, 204; and self-help groups, 194–195; self-help groups case study, 195–203. See also Health care
"Methodology for Measuring the Financial Vulnerability of Charitable Nonprofit Organizations, A," 445–460
Miller, F. D., Jr., Beneficence, Philanthropy and the Public Good, reviewed, 118–120
Milofsky, C., "Issues of Accountability in Health Charities: A Case Study of Accountability Problems Among Nonprofit Organizations," 371–393
Motivation: college trustee (study), 208–221; and employer expectations, 211–212; group participation, 207–208; and humanitarianism, 298–299; individual, 207–208; types, 211; volunteers, 276–277
Multimobilization model, 156
Mutual-help associations, 125

N

National Alliance of the Mentally Ill (NAMI): apartment program, 199–200; background, 195–196; case study, 195–203; cultural variance, 202–203; group care home, 198–199; history, 196–198; and natural history model, 200; and professionals, 200–201; success, 203–204
National Community AIDS Partnership (NCAP), 257–258
Natural history model, 195, 200
"Neighborhood Needs and Organizational Resources: New Lessons from Detroit," 173–189
Neighborhood organizations: Detroit study, 174–186; research, 173–174; and social change, 186
Neocorporatism, 132
Netherlands, political action cross-cultural study, 158–170
Nongovernmental organizations (NGOs): foreign aid, 124; and state bureaucracy-individual link, 241; and Third World development, 239–243
Nonprofit agencies (NPAs), 432–441
Nonprofit organizations (NPOs): accountability, 385; administrative costs, 453; asset evaluation, 377–378; collectiveness index, 141; contracted services (study), 430–441; equity balances, 451–452; financial vulnerability (study), 453–459; vs. for-profits, 34–35; life cycle, 66–67; operating margins, 453; resource management, 6–7; response to persons with AIDS (study), 314–328; revenue concentration, 452–453; revenue instability, 447–448; tax laws, 147; types, 124–125; vs. voluntary organizations, 145–146. See also Not-for-profit (NFP) organizations; Voluntary organizations; Voluntary welfare agencies
Not-for-profit (NFP) organizations: comparative perspective, 85–87; inefficiency, 40; and job satisfaction, 40; vs. proprietary facilities' work environment (study), 41–54; Soviet, 62–93; work environment, 39–40. See also Nonprofit organizations
"Not-for-Profit Organizations in the Soviet Union: Turning On Some Lights," 81–94
Nurses: job participation (study), 41–54; and policy making, 46–47, 52–53; retention, 54

O

Odendahl, T., Charity Begins at Home: Generosity and Self-Interest Among the Philanthropic Elite, reviewed, 113–118
"On Sharing: A Preface to an Economic Theory of Voluntary Action," 359–370
One-way transfer, 360–361
Organizational theory: life-cycle, 67; and organizational aging, 386–387; resource-dependency, 67–68; resource-dependency model, 8; roots model, 58–60, 62–68
Organizations: aging, 386–387; classifications, 140; failure, 351–352. See also Neighborhood organizations; Nonprofit organizations (NPOs); Not-for-profit (NFP) organizations; Voluntary organizations

"Organized Philanthropy's Response to AIDS," 249-266

P

Palestine Jewish community: history, 416-417; self-government, 417-418; voluntary organizations, 426
Paragovernmental organizations (PGOs), 124
Participation: group, and individual motivation, 207-208; motivation, 211-212; and social change, 186; women's, 225-226. See also Activism; Detroit (Mich.) neighborhood participation study; Direct political action; Motivation
"Participation in Policy Determination by Registered Nurses in Not-for-Profit and Proprietary Facilities," 39-55
Participatory research, 175
Partisan-mobilized model, 154
Paul, E. F., Beneficence, Philanthropy and the Public Good, reviewed, 118-120
Paul, J., Beneficence, Philanthropy and the Public Good, reviewed, 118-120
Perlmutter, F., "Commercial Venturing and the Transformation of America's Voluntary Social Welfare Agencies," 25-38
Permanent disaster volunteers: and careerism, 399, 409, 411; commitment, 403-404; defined, 395; and disaster-relevant organizational network (DRON), 397, 406-407, 410-411; organizational structure, 402-403; risks, 403; social responsibility, 411-412; stress, 396, 402-403, 410-411. See also Disaster volunteerism
"Permanent Disaster Volunteers: Where Do They Fit?" 395-414
Perrow, C., The AIDS Disaster: The Failure of Organizations in New York and the Nation, reviewed, 351-356
Personal-relevance-of-government model, 154
Persons with AIDS (PWAs), 268, 274, 277, 289, 295, 299, 302-303, 306
Philanthropy: alternatives, 115-116; corporate, 254-255; and culture, 114; and culture of wealth, 116-117; defined, 119; elite, 113; and HIV-related funding (study), 249-265; and human service planning, 98; incentives, 119-120; and moral issues, 118-119; religious, 463-464; sector, 140, 143; Soviet, 87-88
Political action cross-cultural study, 158-170
Political culture: American, 96; defining, 96; impact, 95; and spending, 96-97; Texan, 98-101; and voluntary/nonprofit sector, 97-98
"Political Culture, Nonprofit Organizations, and the Financing of Human Services," 95-111
Postmaterialism model, 155-156
Power: differences among persons with AIDS, 320-322; and government policy, 313; and market economics, 314; structuralist vs. behaviorist view, 314, 326
Private sector: vs. public sector, 126-127. See also Nonprofit organizations; Not-for-profit (NFP) organizations; Voluntary sector
Private-public continuum, 126
Privatism, 26
Privatization: forms, 26; and governmental load-shedding, 26; social programs, 26
Proprietary facilities, vs. not-for-profit facilities (study), 41-54
Public/private goods, 359-360, 363-365
Public sector, vs. private sector, 126-127
Public services: delivery systems, 123; German, 123, 126-127; organizations, 124-126; quality control/accountability, 430; and sectoral choice, 123-124
Publicness, criterion, 364

Q

Quasi-nongovernmental organizations (Quangos), 124

R

Reiner, T. A., "Not-for-Profit Organizations in the Soviet Union: Turning On Some Lights," 81-94
"Relationships Among Market Work, Work Aspirations, and Volunteering: The Case of Retired Women," 225-236

Religion: and homophobia, 292; member-benefit subsector, 143–144, 147; and philanthropy, 463–464
Resource management: delayed-payment system, 20–21; nonprofit organizations, 6–7; operating and reporting phase, 17–20; proposal and contract phase, 14–17; recommendations, 20–22; restricted grant, 11–22; social services (study), 7–22. See also Funding; Resources
Resource mobilization theory, 67–68, 155, 278, 280, 369
Resource-dependency model of organizational behavior, 8
Resources: human services (Texas), 98–110; voluntary agencies, 64–65. See also Resource management
Restricted grants management (study), 11–22
Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, 256–257, 324–325
Roots model, 58–60, 62–68
"Roots of Voluntary Agencies: A Question of Choice, The," 57–69
Rosentraub, M. S., "Political Culture, Nonprofit Organizations, and the Financing of Human Services," 95–111

S

Schuppert, G. F., "State, Market, Third Sector: Problems of Organizational Choice in the Delivery of Public Services," 123–136
Sector: choice, 123–124; definitions, 137; exchange, 366; formal/informal, 238–239, 241–242; four-sector model, 128–129; grants, 366–367; household/personal, 138–139; member-benefit, 139–140; nature, 137; and organizational types, 140; philanthropic, 140; public/private dichotomy, 126–127; service, 146; and state's role, 130–133; third, 127–128, 139. See also Exchange sector; Grants sector; Private sector; Public sector; Third sector; Voluntary sector
Self-help associations: case study, 195–203; development and change, 193–194; and families of mentally ill, 194–195; and government services, 125; and professionals, 200–201; Western, 192–193
"Self-Help Groups Providing Services: Conflict and Change," 191–205
Self-organizations, 125–126, 133
Seltzer, M., "Organized Philanthropy's Response to AIDS," 249–266
Service sector, 146
Share economy, 365–368
Sharing: collective goods, 365; and excludability, 369; and integrative community systems, 361, 362
"Skill Transferal Benefits from Volunteer Experiences," 71–79
Smith, D. H., "Four Sectors or Five? Retaining the Member-Benefit Sector," 137–150
Social order models, 128
Social service organizations: environment, 7–8; resource management (study), 7–22; revenue shortfalls, 26; venturing, 26–27. See also Human services; Social welfare organizations
Socioeconomic models, 154
Soviet Union: and church, 84–85, 89, 92; economic restructuring, 81–82; philanthropy, 87–88; and public morality, 83–84; state failure, 82–83; voluntarism, 84
State: changing functions, 131–132; vs. market, 126–127; welfare, 132–133. See also Government
"State, Market, Third Sector: Problems of Organizational Choice in the Delivery of Public Services," 123–136
Stephan, P. E., "Relationships Among Market Work, Work Aspirations, and Volunteering: The Case of Retired Women," 225–236
Subsidiarity, 133

T

Taylor, B. E., "Trustee Motivation and Board Effectiveness," 207–224
Texas: changes in government spending, 103–107; and federal support for human services, 101–102; political culture, 98–101
Third sector, 127–128, 139. See also Voluntary sector
Third World, 239–242

"Trustee Motivation and Board Effectiveness," 207–224
Trustees. See Boards of trustees
Tuckman, H. P., "A Methodology for Measuring the Financial Vulnerability of Charitable Nonprofit Organizations," 445–460
Tuckwiller, J. E., "Skill Transferal Benefits from Volunteer Experiences," 71–79

U

Ullmann, S. G., "Participation in Policy Determination by Registered Nurses in Not-for-Profit and Proprietary Facilities," 39–55
Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (USSR). See Soviet Union
United States, political action cross-cultural study, 158–170
United Way, 461–462
Utility: defined, 361; function, 361–362

V

"Varieties of Activism in Three Western Democracies," 151–172
Venturing. See Commercial venturing
Voluntariness, 145–146
Voluntarism: and activity theory, 227; and continuity theory, 227–228; Soviet, 84; substitution/stepping-stone view, 228, 235. See also Gay voluntarism; Volunteerism
Voluntary action: active/nonactive, 401–402; associational, 404–405; bystander, 404; conventional/unconventional, 401; costs, 403; emergent, 405; nonassociational, 404; noninstitutionalized, 401; organizational context, 406–407; permanent life-threatening, 405–406; permanent non-life-threatening, 405; research, 360
Voluntary nonprofit sector. See Voluntary sector
Voluntary organizations: and AIDS, 354–355; ambiguity, 61; associations, 61; black-box view, 57; in developing countries, 415–416; and Eastern European democratization, 427; financial resources, 64; and group theory, 62; human resources, 65; implicit policies, 63–64; intrabeneficial, 140; Jewish, 426; Jewish National Council example, 417–427; marriage guidance (case study), 60; membership, 142–143; vs. nonprofit organizations, 145–146; number, 144; and political culture, 97–98; pregnancy advice (case study), 59; public benefit, 141; roots/governance structure, 65–67; roots model, 58–60, 62–68; and self-government, 425–426; self-help (case study), 59–60; as service sector, 146; types, 125. See also Member-benefit subsector; Nonprofit organizations; Not-for-profit (NFP) organizations; Voluntary sector; Voluntary social welfare agencies
"Voluntary Organizations in Developing Countries and Colonial Societies: The Social Service Department of the Palestine Jewish Community in the 1930s," 415–428
Voluntary sector: conceptualizations, 141; and member-benefit organizations, 139–140; nature, 127–128; response to persons with AIDS, 327; service failure theory, 327; as share economy, 367–368; terms, 139; and Third World development, 239–243. See also Nonprofit organizations; Third sector; Voluntary organizations; Volunteerism
Voluntary welfare agencies: executive dilemmas, 32–35; importance, 61–62; and venturing (study), 27–35; and welfare accountability, 63–64
"Volunteer Response to the AIDS Epidemic in New York City: Implications for Research on Voluntarism, The," 267–287
Volunteerism: AIDS-related (study), 269–284; as career development, 72; collective nature, 273–274; contributing factors, 270; economic value, 280–281; hospital-based programs, 282–284; increase, 270; and market employment, 226–227; and organization type, 270–272; reality vs. myth, 281, 282–283; and religion, 463; research, 269; and skill transferal (study), 71–79; and social causes, 276; as transformative, 275–278, 304–305; typology, 399–406. See also AIDS volunteerism; Disaster volunteerism; Voluntarism

Volunteers: altruism, 298–299; as board members, 282; in bureaucratic organizations, 281–284; and burnout, 277; ephemeral, 402; helping behavior, 402; motivation, 276–277; number, 144; trustee, 207. See also Permanent disaster volunteers
Vosburgh, W. W., review by, 351–356

W

Wagner, A., "On Sharing: A Preface to an Economic Theory of Voluntary Action," 359–370
Welfare: and conservative federal policy, 25–26; contracting, services, 429–430. See also Voluntary social welfare agencies
Welfare state: and individual autonomy, 170; offloading, 132–133; and political action, 152–153
Winkle, C. R., "Inequity and Power in the Nonprofit Sector: A Comparative Analysis of AIDS-Related Services for Gay Men and Intravenous Drug Users in Chicago," 313–328
Women: market participation, 225–22; older vs. younger, volunteers, 229; and skill maintenance, 235–236; voluntarism of retired (study), 228–234; work-volunteer relationship, 226–227, 234–235
Wong, P., "The Formal, Informal, and Voluntary Sectors in Development Theory and Practice," 237–243
Work: and activity theory, 227; and retirement, 234; and voluntarism, 226–228
Workplace: and AIDS, 336–339; environment and service quality, 53–54; and job satisfaction, 40
World Bank, and development policies, 239–241